

Butterflies

The girl, whose name was Lisa, walked around in confusion. She said to herself 'I wonder if everyone else can see these bright beautiful colours as well.' As she met with her friend Hollie, she said 'do you know why all these colours have appeared?' And then Hollie said 'yes it did seem strange in the morning when I opened my front door.' Hollie added 'I had a dream last night that Butterfly Man came into my room and spread caterpillars around my house and they must have hatched when I woke up.' Then suddenly over ten million butterflies came and snatched Lisa from the ground and took her high up into the air. Then the butterflies all made themselves into a horse and Lisa could ride the butterflies. Hollie looked up in amazement. Lisa flew back down and picked up Hollie on the back of the horse which was made of butterflies. Even though they were late for school at first, the butterfly horse got them there on time.