

Ouch Continued

As they got up one by one, they said thank you to the woman. Then the woman stuck out her hand and said 'don't you owe me something?' The shepherds replied 'of course, here you go,' and then got on their magical sheep and flew away.

One week later, the shepherds and the woman called Sophia, crossed paths again. The shepherds realised that when she helped them, it was a scam! The magical sheep gives one wish a day to the shepherds and they used that wish to get revenge on Sophia.

There was light breeze during the night and while the Sophia slept, the shepherds put a spell on her. The spell was called the Nose Grower because whenever when lies her nose gets longer and longer.
